Short Introduction

Rockula delivers honest, guitar-driven hard rock with influences from punk, southern rock, and classic rock. Combining original songs with the occasional rock classic and a genuine passion for performing, the band creates an energetic live atmosphere. As the organizers of the successful Rock im Turm concert series, they know how to engage an audience—and bring that same energy to every stage they play.

Promotional Band Biography

Rockula is a hard rock band that grew out of a spontaneous jam session during the COVID pandemic. What started with a group of lifelong school friends, a dusty guitar, and a few ideas quickly grew into a band with its own songs and a distinctive musical identity. In 2023, they released their debut album, Count of Cool, featuring powerful guitar riffs and influences from hard rock, punk, southern rock, and classic rock. Their songs switch naturally between German and English, ranging from loud and riff-driven to melodic and emotional.

Above all, Rockula is about enjoying live music and sharing that energy with the audience. Their shows combine original material with carefully chosen rock classics that fit the occasion, creating an entertaining and varied set. The band's experience extends beyond performing. Through their own concert series, Rock im Turm, they have grown from hosting a small event for around 30 guests into organizing a well-established annual rock night attracting up to 170 visitors and featuring fellow bands from the regional rock scene. Anyone looking for an authentic live rock act with handcrafted music, strong stage chemistry, and a straightforward approach will find Rockula to be a reliable addition to festivals, club shows, and concert line-ups.

Band Feature Information

Rockula was formed during the COVID pandemic. What was originally meant to be nothing more than an evening of jamming between old school friends soon turned into something much bigger. A dusty guitar, a few ideas, and the desire to make music together again led to the band's first original song. One song followed another, and instead of focusing on cover versions, we decided to write our own material and turn our influences and experiences into music. In 2023, we released our debut album, Count of Cool.

Musically, we sit somewhere between hard rock, punk, southern rock, and classic rock. We never set out to fit neatly into a single genre. Some songs are built around heavy riffs and straightforward energy, while others take a more melodic or laid-back approach. We write in both German and English, depending on what best serves the song. Fans of Motorjesus, Ugly Kid Joe and classic guitar-driven hard rock will recognize familiar influences while still hearing a sound that is unmistakably Rockula.

Our live shows are built around our own songs. Depending on the event, we like to include a few well-chosen rock classics that complement the set without taking the focus away from our original material. We want every performance to feel natural rather than overly rehearsed. We enjoy being on stage, and that usually carries over to the audience.

With our Rock im Turm concert series, we also stepped into the role of promoters. What started as a small local show with around 30 guests has grown into an established annual event welcoming up to 170 visitors and featuring guest bands from the regional rock scene. That experience has given us an understanding of both sides of a live show—the band's perspective and the organizer's.

Rockula stands for honest, handcrafted rock music, driving guitars, memorable choruses, and songs that work just as well live as they do in the rehearsal room. We make music because we genuinely enjoy it, and we're always happy to share that experience with every audience we meet.
